

Forbes Article: The Unique Estate Planning Needs Of The Unmarried

Estate planning discussions often give the impression that every senior in America is married with two or more kids. That's not true, of course, and those who do not fit the profile need estate planning guidance at least as much as the stereotypical couple does. Read more here.